

The South African Child Gauge tracks progress towards the realisation of children's rights and is produced annually by the Children's Institute, University of Cape Town.

The South African Child Gauge 2009/2010 is fifth in the series and focuses on child health. This issue also reflects on recent legislative developments affecting children's health, and provides child-centred data tracking children's access to social assistance, education, health care, housing and basic services.

The Children's Institute aims to contribute to policies, laws and interventions that promote equality and realise the rights and improve the conditions of all children in South Africa, through research, advocacy, education and technical support.

What readers say about the South African Child Gauge

"[T]he South African Child Gauge is the only publication in South Africa that combines detailed empirical data ... in a user-friendly and accessible format, with insightful and thought-provoking research and commentary in the sphere of children's rights."

Belinda van Heerden, Supreme Court judge

"It's an invaluable campaigning tool for activists but also provides academics and state officials the means to critically examine and reflect on the glossy rhetoric of our policies in contrast to the actual reality on the ground."

Salim Vally, Centre for Education Rights and Transformation, University of Johannesburg

"It's authoritative, well researched, well written and easy to understand."
